Dr. Ofer Zur, Ph.D.

Come and join Dr. Zur in his cutting-edge presentation, as he discusses the richness that is presented in movies about psychotherapy. Learn about hot-button topics, such as physical touch, Googling, gifts & much more

Discover the complexities of power and manipulation by therapists as well as by clients and learn about the modern phenomenon of therapists sexting with clients.

Get ready to see therapists portrayed on the big screen as effective, helpful, pathetic, evil, unethical, controlling, sexually exploitative, & also easily overpowered by manipulative clients.

The presentation will also delve into how clients are portrayed in cinema. They are often seen as receptive, courageous, as well as resistant, manipulative & even more powerful than their therapists.

Be ready to be dazzled by the movie clips that we will review including: To The Bone, Good Will Hunting, Analyze This, Mr. Robot, Hope Springs, In Treatment, What About Bob, The Sopranos, Prince of Tides, and many more...

So bring your tissues, and please, bring your own popcorn!
